HIGH EFFICIENCY TOILET - Residential Rebate Program

PURPOSE

The intent of the toilet replacement rebate is to reduce indoor water use and encourage the installation of low water use High Efficiency Toilets. Toilets are by far the main source of water use in the home, accounting for nearly 30 percent of residential indoor water consumption. Toilets also happen to be a major source of wasted water due to leaks and/or inefficiency.

What are High-Efficiency Toilets (HETs)

High Efficiency Toilets use 1.28 gallons per flush (gpf) and are fixtures that on average use at least 20% less water than the standard 1.6 gpf ultra-low flow toilet and >3.5 gpf for older toilets depending on the model. Generally, there are two types of HETs; dual-flush and pressure-assist.

- Dual-flush toilets save water by offering two different flush volumes; one for solids and one for liquids. By selecting which flush to use, you can reduce water usage by using only what is needed. Most dual-flush toilets use 1.6gpf for a full flush and 0.8gpf for a reduced flush. Studies show that dual-flush toilets will average about 1.2gpf.
- Pressure-assist toilets have a sealed vessel inside the tank that compresses a pocket of air inside as the water fills. When the toilet is flushed, the pressurized air forces the water rapidly into the bowl, creating a powerful, fast flush that has a "whoosh" sound. The flush can be slightly louder than standard toilets. Most pressure-assist HETs use about 1.0 to 1.2gpf. There are also pressure-assist dual-flush HETs.

Find a WaterSense Labeled High-Efficiency Toilet*

The following toilets have been certified to meet WaterSense criteria, which means you can expect exceptional performance while reducing your water use.

WaterSense retailers commit to making WaterSense products available in stores. However, products may not be available in all markets.

Please note: Many high-efficiency toilets are sold in two parts, with the tank and bowl sold separately. When components combine to make a WaterSense labeled product, tanks should include the words "When used in combination with [bowl model number/name]" in close proximity to the label, and similarly with bowl labeling. Only the combinations listed below have been certified to bear the WaterSense label.

Model numbers often contain wildcard characters before or after the base model number, such as *, #, and X, that serve as placeholders for numbers or letters that indicate attributes like color and finish.
